Bleek Gyllyam : 48 Hours of Famine (Mchawi Marley) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 48 Hours of Famine (Mchawi Marley):

Twelve year old Marley wakes from another one of her disturbing dreams to be met with an equally unusual mist surrounding her home. That morning she and her mother decided to head to town to find the source of the mysterious fog when they became separated and lost. While missing, Marley comes in contact with other curious residents of Poncho Bayou. The circumstances to follow will lead her to a mysterious world and an acknowledgement of self she would have never otherwise imagined.
