Memories of a Farm Vol III

Richard Hardwick Addy : Memories of a Farm Vol III before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Memories of a Farm Vol III:

This is the final chapter in the description of life on a small farm in the Catskill Mountains of New York State covering a period of almost one hundred years. It traces the changes which occurred during the transition from ox to horse to tractor.

About the AuthorThe author was born in 1935 and is a graduate of Rutgers University with a degree in Agricultural Economics. He spent the bulk of his working life as a Banker. His connection to a small rural farm began in infancy and remains to this day.
